WANDERLUST, SINGAPORE

At the heart of Singapore's Little India is a 1920s school building that has been transformed into a hip hotel by entrepreneur Loh Lik Peng. Known for his knack for making over derelict buildings into off-kilter enclaves, Lik Peng has engaged the country's leading design firms, Asylum, PhunkStudio, fFurious and DP Architects to each design one floor of the four-storey hotel. The lobby is furnished with quirky Frank Gehry and Trent Jensen sofas while the rooms are a fun, eclectic bunch with themes spanning industrial glam, monochromatic chic, forest fantasies, and black-and-white pop art.

THE STRAITS COLLECTION, PENANG

Relive colonial nostalgia in The Straits Collection's beautifully restored shop houses that date all the way back to the 1850s. Occupying two streets in the heart of Penang's UNESCO Heritage zone, the Stewart Lane property boasts three rustic luxe suites, a quaint cafe and a public library. Elsewhere, the Armenian Street row of shop houses comprises four suites and the Bon Ton shop stocking Asian knick-knacks. While the rooms are well-appointed with all the usual mod-cons, they remain authentic with original wooden floor boards, clay tiles, door latches and old paint.
